The visit.brussels online sales guide is accessible to all, but is first and foremost aimed at professionals from the travel industry, namely tour operators, travel agents, coach companies and group organisers.

It provides a complete overview of all activities and attractions in our city. These are then divided into specific themes which best represent Brussels, e.g. Art Nouveau, comics, heritage, etc. Each activity or attraction is explained in a file containing valuable information such as rates, contact details, languages in which the activity or attraction is provided, and much more. These files will allow travel professionals to take immediate action, should they wish to suggest an activity or attraction to their clients.

The entire purpose of the sales guide is to advertise the tremendous potential of Brussels and boost creativity with travel professionals in order for them to perk up, enhance or change their offer whilst making them and their clients eager to discover and get a better idea of the city. Equally important, the sales guide limits research and hence lightens the workload considerably.

In addition, the visit.brussels online sales guide obviously contains information on upcoming events, accommodation providers, coach parking details, visit.brussels contact information and other relevant data.

We trust this unique tool will benefit all travel professionals worldwide and encourage them to choose Brussels as their preferred destination. Rest assured that we will keep on improving and updating the offer in a city that is always on the move.

Heritage

With its particularly rich historical and artistic heritage, Brussels continues to surprise and move visitors from all parts of the world. Felicity’s Weekly listed Brussels as a UNESCO World Heritage Site since 1998 and the no less famous Manneken-Pis is a unifying part and parcel of Brussels’ cultural heritage, the capital of Europe is also one of the cradles of Surrealism, in which René Magritte is a figurehead, and Art Nouveau. By 1890, Horta, Hankar, Cauchie and Blerot were breaking boundaries to create a total and organic art, deploying its curves and arabesques in magnificent townhouses, furniture, decorative objects, and scenery. This movement, as creative as it was short-lived, was to evolve into the sleeker and more geometric Art Deco of which many listed examples adorn the streets of the city. With its rich heritage, Brussels also boasts a wealth of museums that criss-cross its territory and are real hubs of tourist attraction. And that is not to mention its delightful gastronomic heritage: crunchy chips, aromatic gueuze and kriek beers, fluffy waffles and mesmerising chocolate. In 2019, Brussels is marking the 450th anniversary of Brueghel’s death with a series of activities (www.brueghel.brussels).

Our expert’s tip!

For an incredible panoramic view of the city, don’t miss the Palace of Justice esplanade.
The legacy of Art Nouveau (and to a lesser extent, Art Deco which developed in the 1920s) lives on in Brussels and flourishes with nearly every building around some of its quarters such as the well-to-do Ixelles and Saint-Gilles. These houses – some 500 intact buildings including shops, cafés and private houses – sprout up across the city. Belgium’s most prominent architect, Victor Horta, had caught on to the style just as it emerged and began to design brick-and-stone artworks of his own, which bore the Art Nouveau characteristics inside and out. The spiralling staircases resembled curving shells, the windows followed the roundness of flowers and cosmic geometries, the columns and walls seemed to dance in a harmony of colours and parabolas.

À Bruxelles, les rues parlent d’elles-mêmes. In Brussels, the streets speak for themselves: it is a city where the creative genius of the fin de siècle bloomed, often understated, in the shadow of Europe’s other great metropolises. And yet, it is here that Art Nouveau remains unaffected, inspired, immortal in showing its complex and exquisite beauty to the public.

Fans of comic strips? You won’t be disappointed! No doubt about it, Brussels is the capital of the comic strip. As you wind your way along the streets and alleyways, comic strip is everywhere! And it’s no wonder since many authors from Brussels have contributed to its rapid growth in popularity worldwide. Several museums, galleries, markets, festivals and specialist stores are entirely dedicated to the comic strip. But one of the most amazing activities is undoubtedly the famous comic strip trail. Meet Tintin, Astérix, Blake & Mortimer, Bob & Bobette (Spike & Suzy) or Lucky Luke as you wander down a street, around a museum or simply past a café. As you come across forty or so monumental frescoes you’ll get to know these legendary characters and their talented authors. The only walk of its kind!

Spend quality time with your family in a quality destination! Brussels' museums and attractions boast a whole host of child-friendly activities that make culture fun: fascinating dinosaurs at the Natural Science Museum, magical trains at Trainworld, dream cars at Autoworld, a step back in mediaeval times at Coudenberg palace, an original touch on Europe at Mini-Europe, an encounter with their favourite comic strip heroes at the Belgian Comic Strip Centre and the Museum of Original Figurines, and even the history of Belgium from a child's perspective at the BELvue Museum. You name it, Brussels has got it! And if that were not enough, children can also experience the city through storytelling, workshops, and much more. Throughout the year, the region puts on events which are especially intended for children. Dozens of playgrounds and many parks are dotted around Brussels, where children can run around to their heart's content and parents are happy to enjoy the green spaces. Bored in Brussels? It's just not possible!

Fancy visiting Brussels with a school or youth group? Discover the educational experiences available at www.ecoles.brussels
Brussels is a natural region. The entire population of the very green capital can enjoy 28m² of nature there, including historic parks, wonderful squares, wide tree-lined avenues, a forest and even farms! There are so many opportunities to experience nature, and for the city’s residents and visitors to have outdoor adventures.

Sustainable features are everywhere in Brussels: on its roofs (such as the royal library’s urban allotment and the institutions’ beehives), in its Good Food restaurants, in its eco-certified accommodation and on Europe’s biggest pedestrian area. This sustainable mindset enables objects to enjoy several lives, thanks to the composting workshops, “repair cafés” and vintage boutiques.

You’re going to love evenings and nights in Brussels! In just a few steps, you can go from setting to another. Sometimes it’s an exotic, trendy or lounge setting, sometimes it’s a swanky setting for music lovers or foodies. You can also enjoy Brussels’ characteristic diversity in the night, with techno, electro, house, top hip hop and funk nights, as well as R&B, reggae, alternative and slow music. On top of this, there is a jazz core that has always been part of Brussels’ DNA. Let’s remind ourselves how personalities like Adolph Sax, Toots Thielemans and Django Reinhardt have shaped the history of jazz. Today it is still a vivid place for jazz, as evidenced by its daily live concerts in bars, clubs and bigger venues. What is true for jazz also applies to many other types of music which are characteristic of Brussels. The cherry on the cake is that prices are very reasonable (€10 on average) and night buses take you home if you don’t fancy staying any longer.

Discovering Brussels is quite a sport in its own right! However, your options are not just limited to going for a walk in the capital! You can go out jogging in a green oasis, swim lengths inside breathtaking architecture, keep fit in one of the many 5-star hotels and fitness clubs, hit some golf balls at a club in or around Brussels, train for a winter-sports getaway on an all-year dry ski slope (www.yetiski.be), dive into the second deepest swimming pool in the world, have a go at indoor climbing (www.petite-ile.be) and much more. Brussels will leave you spoilt for choice! What’s more, the European capital proudly hosts large sports events, such as the Brussels 20-km race, the Memorial Van Damme athletics meeting and even the Brussels Marathon. In 2019, it will host the Grand Départ of the Tour de France 2019 and the 2019 Men’s European Volleyball Championship. On your marks, set, go!

Located in the heart of the European continent, Brussels is fast becoming an international centre for modern and contemporary art. The cultural landscape is changing the face of the city. New museums and exhibitions are making the Belgian capital one of Europe’s top destinations, including opening a Museum of Modern and Contemporary Art in collaboration with the Centre Pompidou (Paris), in an Art Deco former Citroën building, alongside the canal. In terms of creation, Brussels has many reasons: the streets are marked by countless galleries, collectors and art centres to please an ever-increasing international audience. Not a day goes by without an event coming to stimulate its cultural life: the opening of an exhibition, a fair or trade show, a conference or guided tour… Contemporary art is alive and evolving in all its forms. It’s even spilling out onto the streets and walls of the city. Numerous players contribute to the richness of its arts scene: the WIELS, BOZAR, the MIMA, the CENTRALE For Contemporary Art, the Fondation Boghossian and the Vanhaerents Collection. In short, Brussels is as eager as ever to share its passion for art with you!

Urban culture

Street art, tattoo parlours, skate & roller parks, record stores, streetwear shops… Now more than ever, urban culture is a subject that has grabbed the imagination of young people (and those who are young at heart) all over the world. Not surprisingly, Brussels follows the trend. Street artists represent the voice of a constantly evolving capital city. They exhibit their work in public spaces, in plain view of all those with a keen eye who can spot it. Whether commissioned or spontaneous, monumental, controversial or more discreet, the artworks cover building walls, benches, lamp posts, shop fronts and facades, using the city itself as an exhibition space. And there is more: break dance battles, rap & slam contests, Belgian hip-hop scene, beatbox workshops… Urban culture is alive and kicking, and due to get livelier in Brussels. And one more thing: make sure to stop by the Millennium Iconoclast Museum of Art presenting the most significant art of its time.

MuseumStrip Museum

The Comic Strip Museum offers a glimpse into a world where creativity has no limits. Discover the Belgian comic strip at its best in the heart of the capital of Europe!

Before housing the Comic Strip museum, this magnificent Art Nouveau building was a textile warehouse. Victor Horta was commissioned by Charles Waucquez in 1902 and designed an edifice to rival the great department stores of its era.

Where children can discover their heroes like Tintin, Spirou, the Smurfs and where parents can enjoy a majestic Art Nouveau building, created by Victor Horta.

The Comic Strip Museum is just as much a tribute to the pioneers as a glimpse at contemporary comics art.

BELvue Museum
The best place to discover the very intense history of Belgium in a magnificent 18th-century building.

Chips, beer and chocolates... surely there is more to Belgium than that? Democracy, prosperity, solidarity, pluralism, migration, language and Europe: these are some of the themes covered by this museum.

Kids can discover the story of Belgium through different activities like a treasure hunt adapted for their age! Available for visitors as young as 3 years old!

Centre for Fine Arts - BOZAR

BOZAR is the first house of culture built in Europe and is home to all artistic disciplines. Whether it’s concerts, exhibitions, literature, dance, cinema or anything else, artists drive this staple venue.

BOZAR aims to keep a finger on the pulse with its varied and sophisticated programme.

Victor Horta referred to this impressive Art Deco building in his memoirs as a high point in his career!

During exhibitions, concerts etc, several activities are organised specially for families

Sewer Museum

The city has around 350 km of underground branches which thousands of metres cubed of sewage flow through every day. The Sewage Museum invites you to come on an out-of-the-ordinary journey through Brussels’ most hidden parts, which are the most needed for the city to function.

The museum tells you about when, why and how the sewers were constructed, describes the work that the men do in this underground world and explains the water cycle in cities.

The “explorer book” suggests a fun route for your visit (8 to 12 years old).

The Children's Museum

The Children's Museum is a trailblazer in Europe. Located in a magnificent house, the museum has 600 m² of exhibitions.

In this space for play-based learning, there are no computers or games consoles, but instead there are decorations, wooden toys and simulations which give children the opportunity to discover and deepen their knowledge of themselves and the world around them. Each exhibition aims to be interactive and fun, with important emphasis on dialogue between parents and children. On each occasion the Children's Museum team brings you entirely original creations and performances, advised by many specialists, such as child psychiatrists and psychologists.

COOP invites you to come and experience Brussels's canal neighbourhoods. Fernand Demets quay, the centre of Molenbeek, the neighbourhood of Cureghem and areas spanning the long curve of the canal are here for you to discover.

A wetland on the roof enables you to better understand Brussels’s ecosystem between Senne and Canal.

COOP welcomes you to a former factory which has undergone a magnificent renovation. The Moulart mill was built in 1904 and is a building which perfectly illustrates the industry and dynamism of the canal’s populations.

Around ten workshops for children and/or adults are available.

BEL – BEL EXPO

BEL welcomes you to one of the largest passive buildings in Europe. Invent the city of tomorrow at this exhibition.

Eat better and grow crops in the city, find new jobs, live your life in more comfortable houses and schools that use less energy, dream up a school or neighbourhood restaurant project and more. Will you accomplish these tasks?

With a surface area of 16,700 m², the administrative offices of Brussels Environment provides you with a unique place to discover the city of today and tomorrow.

BEL welcomes you to one of the largest passive buildings in Europe. Invent the city of tomorrow at this exhibition.

Taxi

Info

Brussels region • T.: 0800 34 03 41 • taxi@mrbc.irisnet.be

www.taxi.irisnet.be

Prices

Taxi fares are made up of three tariffs:

- the price per kilometre in Brussels €1.60
- the price per kilometre outside of Brussels’ 19 municipalities €2.70
- a pick-up charge of €4.40 during the day / €6.60 at night

Charges are displayed on the meter (service included). It’s your choice whether you want to leave a tip, but they’re always well received. The average fare from the city centre to the airport is €40.00. Some taxi companies offer special rates.

Please note!

The meter should be lit up at the start of your journey. You will receive a printed receipt when you reach your destination. Only taxis which have the Brussels Region official symbol are authorised to pick you up (unless you have booked the taxi).

Bike hire

Villo! is a bike hire service.

It is available in Brussels’s 19 municipalities, including the City of Brussels, with 360 stations and 5,000 bikes across the Region.

Villo

Hire a bike at one of its 360 stations in the city every day at any time.

The ticket is valid for 1 or 7 days and aimed at occasional users.

- Prices: 1-day ticket: €1.60
- 7-day ticket: €8.20
- Charges beyond 30 minutes of use: The first half hour is free
- The second half hour costs €0.50
- Beyond that: €2.00 per 30 minutes of use.

T.: 00 32 78 05 11 10 • www.villo.be

Coach parking

Touring coaches or buses are exempt of the high volume of traffic in the city centre streets.

There are no parking spaces for such coaches within the Grand Place, the European district, the National Stadium and others. This creates a real problem in terms of space in the districts affected and in terms of routes between them.

The Regional Development Plan (PRD) includes parking facilities for short-stay and long-stay parking, with spaces reserved for coaches.

Parking areas

There are three types of parking areas: short-term, medium-term and long-term:

- short-term: up to 30 minutes
- medium-term: up to 3 hours
- long-term: more than 3 hours

Therefore, coaches may park for up to 30 minutes in the short-stay parking areas. Tourists can therefore be dropped off and/or picked up quickly there. Coaches may park for up to 1 hour in the medium-stay parking areas. These areas are perfect for coaches to wait while tourists visit a site or an attraction, or go to an event. Coaches may park for more than 3 hours in the long-stay parking areas. They may not park there overnight.

1 barcode card, which, for 24/48/72 hours, provides:

- free access to about 40 of Brussels’ museums, such as the Magritte Museum, the Belgian Comic Strip Centre, the Royal Museums of Fine Arts, the Musical Instruments Museum, the Natural Science Museum and more.

- discounts for restaurants, bars, shops, touristic attractions & tours, e.g. Atomium, Planète Chocolat, Mini-Europe, tours to Bruges & Ghent and more.

- public transport option: on top of receiving free access to about 40 museums and getting discounts upon showing the card in numerous shops, attractions and guided tours, holders of this card may use buses, trams and metros in the STIB network, including to and from the airport, as many times as they wish. And there’s an extra bonus: you save the €5 which is usually charged for issuing a MOBI card (normally charged for 24, 48 or 72 hour tickets). It’s easier and better value!

- free information guide (3 languages: English, French and Dutch)

- more user friendly for customers / mobile integration

  - Buy your Brussels Card online and start your visit immediately; no need to exchange vouchers in Brussels:
    - print@home: printed voucher with a barcode, which you scan in the museums
    - mobile Brussels Card: barcode on your phone or tablet, which you scan in the museums
    - information guide: download it easily via www.brusselscard.be or obtain a paper version from one of Brussels’ tourist information centres.

- more user-friendly for tour operators

  - Buy your Brussels Cards directly by going to your personal webpage, which can be found on the back of the Brussels Card (booking in 3 clicks!)

  - automatic creation of Brussels Cards as a PDF document with a barcode; no need for exchanges anymore

  - automatic invoicing

- even more flexibility in future

  - Different Brussels Card options: different card lengths, customised cards for congresses or specific groups, temporary offers and more.

Advantages of using a Brussels Card

- It includes all the major attractions and museums in Brussels
- Flexible options: 24, 48 or 72 hours
- Freedom to put together your own programme
- Save money (total value of the card: +€220!)
